PRELIMINARY TESTS.

[Vide Rule 16.]

1.—Heat Test as applied to Explosives of the Nitro-compound Class.

ORIGINAL INSTRUCTIONS.

Apparatus required.

1. A water bath, consisting of a spherical glass or copper vessel [ (a) Fig. I ] of about 8 inches diameter, and with an aperture of about 6 inches; the bath is filled with water to within a quarter of an inch of the edge. It has a loose cover of sheet copper about 6 inches in diameter (b), and rests on a tripod stand about 14 inches high (c), which is covered with coarse iron wire gauze (d), and is surrounded with a screen of thin sheet tin or copper (e). Within the latter is placed an Argand burner (f), with glass chimney. The cover (b) has four holes arranged as shown in Fig. II, No. 4 to receive the regulators, No. 3 the thermometer, Nos. 1 and 2 the test-tubes containing the gun-cotton or other materials to be tested. Around hole 1 and 2 on the outer side of the cover are soldered three pieces of brass wire with points slightly converging (Fig. III); these act as springs and allow the test-tubes to be easily placed in position and removed.

* 3. Schellier's or Page's temperature regulator.

* 4. Two cells of Le Clanché's battery No. 1. } If Schellier's regulator is used.

* 5. A few yards of insulated copper wire.

* 6. Test-tubes from 5½ to 5¾ inches long, and of such diameter that they will hold from 20 to 22 cubic centimetres of water when filled to a height of 5 inches.

* 7. India rubber stoppers, fitting the test-tubes and carrying an arrangement for holding the test-paper, viz., a narrow glass tube passing through the centre of the stopper, drawn out so as to form a hook, or terminating in a platinum wire hook (Fig. IV).

* This hook absolutely required, as the temperature of the bath, as in being contained by proper screwing in the testing tube.

1. A thermometer, with range not less than from 30° to 212° Fahrenheit.
2. A minute clock.

Materials required.

(a) Test-paper.—The test-paper is prepared as follows:—45 grains of white maize starch (semifine), previously washed with cold water, are added to 8½ ounces of distilled water; the mixture is stirred, heated to boiling, and kept gently boiling for 10 minutes; 10 grains of pure potassium iodide, i.e., which has been re-crystallised from alcohol, are dissolved in 8½ ounces of distilled water. The two solutions are thoroughly mixed and allowed to get cold. Strips, or sheets, of best white English filter paper, weighing air dry, from 4·1 to 4·6 grammes per 180 square inches, previously washed with water and so-dried, are dipped into the solution thus prepared, and allowed to remain in it for not less than 10 seconds; they are then allowed to drain and dry in a place free from laboratory fumes and dust. The upper and lower margins of the strips, or sheets, are cut off, and the paper is preserved in well-shopped or curled bottles as in the sketch.<sup>a</sup> The dimensions of the pieces of test-paper must be about  $\frac{1}{8}$  inch by  $\frac{1}{8}$  inch (10 mm. by 25 mm.).

(b) Standard test-paper.—A solution of caramel in water is made of such concentration that when diluted one hundred times (10 cc. made up to 1 litre) the tint of this diluted solution equals the tint produced by the Naude test in 100 cc. water containing 0·000025 grm. of arsenous or 0·0000250 grm. of chloride of arsenicum. With this caramel solution lines are drawn on strips of white filter paper† by means of a clean quill pen. When the marks thus produced are dry the paper is cut into pieces of the same size as the test-paper previously described, in such a way that each piece has a brown line across it near the middle of its length, and only such strips are preserved in which the brown line has a breadth varying from  $\frac{1}{8}$  mm. to one mm. ( $\frac{1}{16}$  of an inch to  $\frac{1}{8}$  of an inch).

Nitro-glycerine preparations, from which the nitro-glycerine can be extracted in the manner described below, must satisfy the following test.

This test, however, though at present looked upon as the most important, as far as testing the purity of the nitro-glycerine is concerned, is in England only one of several which any given sample of nitro-glycerine preparation has to satisfy in order to establish its compliance with the definition in the Authorised List.

Apparatus required.

A funnel 2 inches across (d), a cylindrical container divided into grains (e) (See sketch).

<sup>a</sup> When a piece is finally prepared, and as long as it remains in good condition a drop of dilute acetic acid, such as the paper with a given test, gives rise no indication. In a case of this kind, however, the stronger the light to which the paper is exposed, the more a drop of gold particles is formed. In this case, when the light is of about equal intensity, a marked effect will be observed in the light and the paper should be exposed. After exposure the paper should be kept in the dark for a month before being taken out. After that, if a monthly step in the dark, it will remain good for six months or more, but should be tested from time to time as before.

About 200 to 300 grains of dynamite (b) finely divided are placed into the funnel which has previously been loosely plugged by some freshly-digested solution (a).

The surface is smoothed by means of a flat headed glass rod or stopper, and some clean washed and dried Kieselguhr (c) is spread over it to the depth of about  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch.

Water is next carefully dropped from a wash bottle upon this Kieselguhr, and when the first portion has been soaked up more is added; this is repeated until sufficient nitro-glycerine has been collected in the graduated measure (d) below.

If any water should have passed through with the nitro-glycerine, it should be removed with a piece of blotting paper, and the nitro-glycerine, if necessary, filtered through a dry paper filter.

Application of the test.

The thermometer is fixed so as to be inserted through the lid of the water bath described under I, into the water (which is to be steadily maintained at a temperature of 164° Fahr \*) to a depth of  $\frac{3}{4}$  inches. Fifty grains of nitro-glycerine to be tested are weighed into a test-tube in such a way as not to end the sides of the tube. A test paper is fixed on the back of the glass rod so that when inserted into the tube it will be in a vertical position. A sufficient amount of a mixture of half distilled water and half glycerine to moisten the upper half of the paper is now applied to the upper edge of the test-paper by means of a camel's hair pencil, the cork unscrewing the rod and paper is fixed into the test-tube and the position of the paper adjusted, so that its lower edge is about half-way down the tube; the latter is then inserted through one of the perforations of the cover to such a depth that the lower margin of the moistened part of the paper is about two-thirds of an inch above the surface of the cover. The test is complete when the faint brown line, which after a time makes its appearance at the fine of boundary between the dry and moist part of the paper, equals in tint the lower line of the standard tint paper.

The nitro-glycerine under examination will not be considered to have satisfied the test unless the time necessary to produce the standard tint as above described is at least 10 minutes.

B.—Blasting Gelatine, Gelatine Dynamite, and Associated Preparations.

Fifty (50) grains of blasting gelatine are to be intimately incorporated with one hundred (100) grains of French chalk.† The mixture is to be gradually introduced into a test-tube of the dimensions prescribed above for the dynamite heat test, with the aid of gentle tapping upon the table, between the introduction of successive portions of the mixture into the tube, so that when the tube contains all the mixture it shall be filled to the extent of  $\frac{1}{2}$  inches (one inch and three-quarters) of its height. The test-paper is then to be inserted and the heat is to be applied in the manner prescribed above for the dynamite heat test, and the sample tested is to withstand exposure to 164° Fahr. for a period of ten (10) minutes, before producing a discoloration of the test-paper corresponding in tint to the standard colour test which is employed for governing the results of the dynamite heat test.

(For Reaction and Liquefaction tests for Blasting Gelatine, etc., etc., see Appendix).

N.B.—Kieselguhr-based nitro-glycerine preparations from which the nitro-glycerine cannot be separated by water, are tested without any previous separation of the ingredients, the temperature being at least (164° Fahr.) and the time being seven (7) minutes.

C.—Candles and Ballistics.1. Apparatus required.

The apparatus necessary for the application of the ball test is identical with that described above for experiments of the nitro-compound class generally; with the addition of a well and a cork of glass; similar to those used at Watkinson Abbey for preparing the candle for testing (see instructions below).

* For application supplied for His Majesty's Military and Naval Services the temperature is fixed by the War Office at 164°.

† This can be easily effected by carefully working the two materials together with a wooden push in a wooden mortar.

The French chalk should be of good, non-metal quality, and, after being carefully washed with distilled water and dried in a water oven, it should be exposed under a bell jar in contact with a well 3 inches in diameter up about 94 grains of sulphuric acid. It should then be bottled for use, and with ordinary care the limits of 84 grains each may be maintained in keeping.

1. In the Watkinson Abbey apparatus the cover (Fig. 51) has all the holes round the circumference instead of having one in the centre and three around the circumference.

2. A row of five screws with the holes drilled in about square. The holes in the top cover have a diameter of  $\frac{1}{16}$  W.G., those in the specimen  $\frac{1}{16}$  W.G.

3. The heat for the well, it may be followed by exposure in the vacuum of motive, or referred to the laboratory register for itself, it should be covered up with small pieces which may be brought to any desired degree of hardness by repeated exposure to air.

Experiments which stand partly of gelatinized solution and partly of crystallized gun-cotton are best tested by a cup, or surface by exposure in moist water and alcohol vapour at a temperature of 164° or 168° Fahr.

2. Preparation of the sample to be tested.

Plates half an inch long are cut from one end of every stick selected for the test; in the case of the thicker cordites, each piece so cut is further subdivided into about four portions. These cut pieces are then passed once through the mill, the first portion of material which passes through being rejected as account of the possible presence of foreign matter from the mill. The ground material is put on the top sieve of the test of sieves and sifted. The portion which has passed through the top sieve and been stopped by the second is taken for the test. If the mill is properly set the greater portion of the ground material will be of the proper size.

If the volatile matter in the explosive exceed 0.5 per cent, the sifted material should be dried at a temperature not exceeding 140° Fahr. until the proportion does not exceed 0.5 per cent.

After each sample has been ground, the mill must be taken to pieces and carefully cleaned.

3. Application of the Test.

The thermometer is fixed so as to be inserted through the lid of the water bath described under paragraph 1, so as to be immersed in the water to a depth of 2½ inches. The water is maintained at a constant temperature of 190° Fahr. When this temperature is reached, 25 grains of the sifted cordite are put into one of the test-tubes, and collected at the bottom by gentle tapping. A test paper is fixed on to the back of the glass end, so that when inserted into the tube it will be in a vertical position. A mixture of equal parts of distilled water and pure glycerine (Froes's) is now applied to the upper edge of the test paper by means of a cork-bottle pourer, in sufficient amount to moisten the upper half; the stopper carrying the rod and paper is fixed into the test-tube and the position of the paper adjusted so that its lower edge is about half-way down the tube; the latter is then inserted through one of the perforations of the cover to the same depth as the thermometer. The lower margin of the moistened part of the paper should then be about five-eighths of an inch above the surface of the cover. The test is completed when the faint brown line, which after a time indicates its appearance at the margin between the wet and dry portions of the test-paper, equals in depth half the brown line down on the standard test paper.

4 The time which elapses between the insertion of the test-tube and the completion of the test must not be less than 15 minutes.

N.B.—In the case of ballistics the treatment in the above except that when it is in a very finely granulated condition, it need not be cut up.

III.—Testing Gun-cotton, Schultze's Gun Powder, E.C. Powder, and other Explosives of the 2nd Division of the Nitro-compound Class.

A.—COMMON NITRO-COMPOUND TESTS, ETC., ETC.

Sufficient material is taken for two or more tests is removed from the sticks of the outside by gentle scraping, and, if necessary, further reduced by rubbing through a sieve with a clean hard brush.

The gun powder thus produced is spread out in a thin layer upon a paper tray 6 in. deep by 4½ inches which is then placed inside a water oven, kept, as nearly as possible, at 190° Fahr.

The wire gauze shelves in the oven should be about 2 inches apart. The sample is allowed to remain at rest for 15 minutes in the oven, the door of which is left wide open.

After the lapse of 15 minutes the tray is removed and exposed to the air of the room for two hours, the sample being at some noted width that time rolled upon the tray with a brush, in order to reduce it to a fine and uniform state of division.

The cover of the water bath is fitted with the gas regulator which is inserted through the centre hole (No. 4). The thermometer is fixed into hole No. 8. The water in the bath is then heated to 175° Fahr., and the regulator set to maintain that temperature. Twenty grains of the sample to be tested are weighed out, placed in the test-tube, and gently pressed down until the specimen occupies a space of not more than 1¼ inches in a test-tube of the dimensions specified. A test-paper is affixed to the back of the glass rod or tube, and moistened by touching the upper edge with a drop of distilled water containing 50 per cent. of Fieser's glycerine. The quantity of liquid used must be only sufficient to moisten about half of the paper. The cork carrying the rod and test-paper is then fixed into the test-tube, and the latter inserted into the bath to a depth of 2½ inches, measured from the cover, the regulator and thermometer being inserted to the same depth. The test-paper is to be kept near the top of the test-tube, but clear of the cork, until the tube has been removed for about five minutes. A ring of moisture will about this time be deposited upon the sides of the test-tube a little above the cover of the bath; the glass rod must then be lowered until the lower margin of the moistened part of the paper is on a level with the bottom of the ring of moisture in the tube; the paper is now slowly watched. The test is complete when the faint brown line which marks its appearance at the line of boundary between the dry and moist parts of the paper, equals in tint the brown line of the standard test paper.

The interval of time between the first insertion of the tube containing the sample of gun-cotton in the water at 120° and the production of the standard tint constitutes the test, and this interval of time must be not less than 10 minutes, or the sample will not be considered to have satisfied the test.

B.—GELATINISED AND SALT-GELATINISED NITRO-CELLULOSE PREPARATIONS.*

Twenty-five grains introduced into the test-tube† as the directions prescribed for the dynamite heat test, then proceed as for blasting gelatine, etc., taking the temperature at 160° Fahr., and the time as 10 minutes.

C.—NITRO-CELLULOSE NOT CONTAINING IN A. OR B., SCOTT'S POWDER, E. C. POWDER, &c., &c.

Sufficient of the sample, without further mechanical division, is dried in the oven as above, and then exposed for two hours to the air. The test as directed above for compressed nitro-cellulose, etc., is then applied, the minimum duration of test being the same, viz., 10 minutes.

D.—POWDER ACT.

(1) The material shall contain not more than 0.2 part of mineral or non-combustible matter in 100 parts by weight of the material dried at 100° Fahr.

(2) It should not contain more than a minute trace of lead.

(3) One hundred parts of the dry material shall not contain more than 0.2 part of total (free and combined) sulphuric acid, of which not more than 0.1 part shall be free sulphuric acid.

(4) Its melting point should be between 345° and 357° Fahr.

E.—AMMUNITION, DYNAMITE, BLASTING, AND EXPLOSIVES OF SIMILAR COMPOSITION.

These are required to stand the same heat test as compressed nitro-cellulose.

IV.—Testing Chlorate-Mixtures.

The material must not be too sensitive‡ and must show no tendency to increase in sensitivity on keeping.

The material must contain nothing liable to reduce the chlorate.

Chlorate calculated as potassium chlorate must not exceed 9.25 per cent.

The material must contain no free acid, or substance liable to produce free acid.

Explosives of this class containing nitro-compounds will be subject to the heat test as if they belonged to Class III.

F. Testing Ammonalites (Divisions 2 and 3).

Any explosive made up into ammonalite (other than Division 1), for which a test is provided in the schedule, is to be tested as if not so made up.

* It is a compound from which it should be broken up in the water used in crystallising solutions.

† They will be considered too sensitive if they can be exploded however partially by means of a glowing blow with a heated iron wire (such as that).

APPENDIX

EXPERIENCE AND INSTRUCTIONS TEST FOR BLASTING GELATINE, GELATINE DYNAMITE AND ANALOGOUS PREPARATIONS.

Test for Leptotacton.

A cylinder of blasting gelatine is to be cut from the cartridge to be tested, the length of the cylinder to be about equal to its diameter and the ends being cut flat.

The cylinder is to be placed on and on a flat surface without any wrapper, and secured by a pin passing radially through its centre.

In this condition the cylinder is to be exposed for one hundred and forty-four (144) consecutive hours (six days and nights) to a temperature ranging from 80° to 90° Fahn. (Fahrenheit), and during such exposure the cylinder shall not diminish in height by more than one-fourth of its original height, and the upper end surface shall retain its flatness and the sharpness of its edge.

Note.—If the blasting gelatine and the gelatine dynamite to be tested be not made up in a cylindrical form, the above test is to be applied with the necessary modifications.

Test for stability in oxidation.

There shall be no separation from the general mass of the blasting gelatine or gelatine dynamite of a substance of less consistency than the bulk of the remaining portion of the materials under any conditions of storage, transport, or use, or when the material is subjected three times in succession to alternate freezing and thawing, or when subjected to the liquefaction test hereinafter described.

3. The magazine is not to be used until this license is endorsed by the district authority in accordance with rule 48.

4. The licensee shall keep records and accounts of all explosives in stock and of all sales or issues in such form as the Local Government may from time to time direct.

5. There shall not be at the same time in the magazine any quantity of explosives exceeding the quantity specified in the license.

6. The magazine shall be used only for the keeping of the explosives specified in the license, and of receptacles for, or tools or implements for work connected with, the keeping of such explosives.

7. The interior of the magazine, and the benches, shelves and fittings therein, shall be so constructed or so lined or treated as to prevent the exposure of any iron or steel, and the detaching of any grit, iron, steel or similar substances in such manner as to come into contact with the explosives; and such plaster, bricks, shelves and fittings shall, so far as is reasonably practicable, be kept free from grit and otherwise clean; and, in the case of any explosive being possessed which is liable to be dangerously affected by water, due precautions shall be taken to exclude water therefrom.

Provided that so much of this condition as relates to precautions against the exposure of any iron or steel and the detaching of any grit, iron, steel or similar substances, shall not be obligatory in a building in which no explosive other than an explosive of the first division of the G (B) (B) (B) class is kept.

8. The magazine shall have attached thereto an efficient lightning conductor, which shall be tested at least once during the currency of the license, and a certificate showing the result and date of the last test shall be hung up in a conspicuous place in the magazine.

9. Before repairs are done to any room or magazine or part thereof, the same shall, as far as is practicable, be cleared by the removal of all explosives or mixed ingredients thereof, and the thorough washing out of such room, magazine or part; and after such clearing these conditions shall cease to apply to such room or part of the magazine until any explosive is again taken into it.

Provided that this condition shall not be obligatory in a magazine in which no explosive other than an explosive of the first division of the 5th (ammunition) class is kept.

10. Except after each cleaning, all tools and implements used in, or in packing any explosives in, any part of the magazine shall be made only of wood, copper or brass or some soft metal or material, or shall be covered with some safe and suitable material.

Provided that so much of this condition as applies to the exclusion of grit, iron or steel, shall not be obligatory in a building in which an explosive other than an explosive of the first division of the 5th (ammunition) class is kept.

12. No person shall smoke in any part of the magazine.

13. No person under the age of fourteen years shall be employed in or enter the magazine, except in the presence and under the supervision of some grown up person, and no explosive shall be sold to any such person.

3. The magazine shall be used only for the keeping of such explosives as may be specified in the license, and of receptacles for, or tools or implements for work connected with, the keeping of such explosives.

4. The interior of the magazine, and the benches, shelves and fittings therein, shall be so constructed or so lined or covered as to prevent the exposure of any iron or steel in such manner, and the detaching of any grit, iron, steel or similar substance in such manner, as to come into contact with the explosives in such magazine; and such interior, benches, shelves and fittings shall, so far as is reasonably practicable, be kept free from grit and otherwise clean.

10. No fire, lighter or lighter matches, and no substance or article which is likely to cause explosion or fire, shall be permitted to be at any time in the magazine.

11. No provision shall be made, by the use of suitable working clothes without pockets, or of suitable shoes, or by abstaining or otherwise, or by some such means, for preventing the introduction into the magazine of fire, lighter matches or any substance or article which is likely to cause explosion or fire; and for preventing the introduction of any gilt, iron or steel interior part of the magazine where it would be likely to come into contact with explosives; and in any part of the magazine in which any explosive is kept which is liable to be dangerously affected by water, due provision shall be taken to exclude water from such part; but this condition shall not prevent the introduction of an artificial light of such construction, position or otherwise as not to cause any danger of fire or explosion; and so much of this condition as relates to the exclusion of gilt, iron or steel shall not be obligatory in the case of a magazine in which no explosives other than explosives of the 1st Division of the 6th (ammunition) Class is kept.

12. No person shall smoke in any part of the magazine.

13. (1) The licensee shall not employ any vessel, barge or craft to carry an explosive to or from the magazine unless the cabin, hold or other part of the vessel, barge or craft in which the explosive is or is to be carried—

MOVES AND SUGGESTIONS FOR INDIAN STUDENTS FOR THE ENGLISH BAR.

An Indian student desiring to be called to the English Bar must join one of the Inns of Court in London, pay certain fees, pass certain examinations, and keep 15 terms by sitting dinner at the Inn to which he belongs.

Examination for Admission.—Before being admitted to any of the Inns of Court the student must (unless he is a Fellow, a scholar, or a member of the Inns of Court) pass one of the qualifying examinations specified in the Consolidated Regulations of the Inns of Court; these examinations, and the subjects to be taken, are set out at the end of this leaflet.

Certificates.—The student must produce at least two certificates of good character, one from a respectable person who has known him for a year or more, and one from the Secretary for India. Before giving the latter certificate the Secretary for India must be reported to see the student and to make inquiries as to his character and antecedents through one of the Indian Advisory Committees. Every student coming from India to join the English Bar should therefore the previous to which he belongs, and should ask the Committee to forward the reference as needed to the Secretary for India/Students at the India Office, London.

Fees.—The fees payable at the four Inns vary slightly, but the cost of being called to the Bar is about 200 l. or 250 l. Besides this, however, there have to be found the disbursements required by the fees on the student's admission, which are entered without interest when he is called, or dies, or withdraws. The Four Temple requires, in addition to the fees of 40*l*. 10*s*. 6*d*. paid on admission, and 20*l*. 10*s*. paid on call, a deposit of 10*l*. 4*s*. as security, and also a deposit of 50*l*. on account of Commencement and Dues. The Inner Temple requires, in addition to fees of 4*l*. 1*s*. 6*d*. as admission, and of 20*l*. 10*s*. on call, a deposit of 100*l*. as security, but no further deposit on account of Commencement and Dues. Lincoln's Inn requires, in addition to fees of 40*l*. on admission, and 60*l*. on call, both 100*l*. as security and 20*l*. on account of Commencement and Dues. Gray's Inn requires, in addition to fees of 40*l*. on admission, and 60*l*. on call, both 100*l*. as security and 20*l*. on account of Commencement and Dues. Students at British Universities, however, who have kept two years' terms, are not compelled to make the deposit of 100*l*. on the Four Temple; Lincoln's Inn, or Gray's Inn, and Gray's Inn and the Four Temple may accept in place the deposit before a University man has kept his two years' terms if satisfied that he means to complete them. The Inner Temple, however, will only waive the 100*l*. deposit in the case of University men if a bond for it with two sureties (Barristers or Householders in England) is given by the student. The Four Temple, Lincoln's Inn, and Gray's Inn will waive the deposit for the 100*l*. deposit if a bond is executed by the student with two sureties approved by the Inn. But these sureties must be Barristers or Householders in this country when the student leaves, and officials of the Indian Statutory Department cannot undertake this duty. It may therefore save Indian students inconvenience if they are prepared to pay this 100*l*. deposit, as well as the deposit of 100*l*. and they lose nothing by paying three deposits except the interest on their money. Besides these fees the student has of course to bear the cost of living in England, for whom not less than 150*l*. or 120*l*. a year should be allowed, and also the cost of any tuition or education which he requires.

For Examination.—After he is admitted as an Inn the student must pass the following examinations before he can be called to the Bar, and it should not be assumed that these examinations are easy:—

Part I.

- I. Roman Law.
  - II. Constitutional Law (English and Colonial) and Legal History.
  - III. Criminal Law and Procedure.
  - IV. Real Property and Conveyancing or Hindu and Mohammedan Law, or Roman-Dutch Law.
- The student may take any or all of these examinations at any time after his admission.

Part II.

V. The Final examination, which must not without special leave be taken until the student has kept his terms, and which consists of four papers, all of which must be taken at the same examination, viz. (a) a paper in Common Law, (b) a paper in Equity, (c) a paper on the Law of Evidence and Civil Procedure, and (d) a General Paper on all three-time subjects.

General Education.—A well-educated and competent student will find that the work required to pass his Bar examinations does not occupy the whole of his time for three years. If any be well, therefore, he can go to read for a University degree or to read in a Barrister's chambers, or to follow some other kind of study. In the position of the Courts in India is to raise the standard of education for Barristers. The High Court at Calcutta requires Barristers whom it admits to take a degree in law in one of several Indian Universities, or to take a degree in a British University, or to be educated for three years in the United Kingdom. The High Court at Allahabad requires a degree in a British University or three years' education in the United Kingdom.

Reading in Chambers.—Besides this, the High Courts in Calcutta, Bombay and Allahabad now require that Barristers whom they admit shall have read in a barrister's chambers in England for at least one year; but the Court at Allahabad will waive this requirement in the case of a Barrister who has taken a degree in law in one of several specified Universities in India and the United Kingdom. The Courts at Calcutta and Allahabad require that this year should be evidence of the three years spent in practical education in the United Kingdom. The Court at Bombay requires that the chambers should be the chambers of a practicing European Barrister of more than 10 years' standing.

Call to the Bar.—All students when called to the Bar have to be proposed by a Bachelor of one Inn and should endeavour to make the representation of one of the Inns as soon as before-hand. The Society for India students may be able to help them with introduction if required.

Admission to High Courts or Sudder Courts—Students intending to practice in India after their call, Barristers are required by the High Courts to produce proof that they have been duly called and have fulfilled the conditions which the respective Courts lay down. They may show this either in their own or two certificates as to residence and study from responsible persons who have known them. It would, however, be well to have such certificates, but they should be procured independently of the Students' Department.

Foreign.—Students who have attended for 12 months in a Barrister's chambers in London may be called to the Bar after keeping 3 years instead of 12.

Students Exempted from Admission to one of the Inns of Court in London.—Under the Consolidated Regulations of the Four Inns students can qualify for admission by passing the degree examination of any University in the British dominions suggested by the Council of Legal Education, or any universities which admit to the Indian Civil Service, to the Cavalry Service, to Cadetships in the Army or Navy, to an Eastern Cadetship in Scotland or to Westbury, or the Senior Grade examination of the Irish Intermediate Education Board, or the School Certificate examination of the Higher Certificate examination held by the Oxford and Cambridge Schools Examination Board, or the School Examination (Matriculation Standard) of the University of London.

But Indian students who have not already qualified for a degree in India generally take one of the examinations set out in the tabulated statement here-into, in regard to which details are given showing the dates, the fees, and the subjects required.

* This investigation is an open investigation, but can only be taken by members of the University or those who candidates for degree (i.e., such persons as intend, if admitted, to make in the University hold they have taken a degree.
